

The second Part, to the same Tune.

O if the fashion should be now,
on shoes to wear great beads,
Or if some people should but wear hand-baskets on their heads:
The rest will follow them I know that they like Coxcombs thus might go O people, monstrous people
what do you mean to do?

O if the fashion should be thus to wear the ears of Pigs,
In womens breasts or on their heads
As men wear Perrywigs:
Pride will gibe that fashion place,
The Pigs would go to wrack a pace,
O people, monstrous people
what do you mean to do?

Curled locks are daily sold to women for to wear,
An ugly sight for to behold.
to see them wear false hair,
Women and men fantastick Elves,
Know not what to wear themselves,
O people, &c.

Men with white Powder, powder their they look like Millers right (haire) What coulde forber their clothes are the Powder makes them white:

Boots they wear with a picket-toe,
Stradling through the streets they go.
O men, &c.

Our Ancestors were civill men
As we may read and hear;
Though they were men of good account,
would leather shoe-strings wear,
Their hands unto their shirts were sown
But now we are more gallant grown,
O people, monstrous people
what do you mean to do.

A Leather-Girdle about their waste, as plain as plain may be,
An honest heart within their brest,
from guile and falsehood free:
No Bils nor Bonds betwixt them then,
But now we live more like Devils then O people, monstrous people, (men
what do you mean to do?

What I have said good people all is nearly out of love, I do desire that great and small may fear the Lord above:
That cruelty and pride may cease,
And that we may enjoy true peace.
That Pride may be o'rethrown,
And charity take place.
